The Feast of the Martyrs of New Guinea 3rd September, 2017

An Acknowledgement of Country

As we gather in this Parish Church, we acknowledge the Yuggera people, the traditional custodians of this land, and their elders past and present. We honour the connection the traditional custodians have with this land.

A warm welcome today to all our special guests and visitors, to the 75th remembrance service of the Martyrs of Papua New Guinea.

TODAY'S SERVICES

8.30 am St Paul's ~ Holy Communion

Presiding ~ Revd. Steve McMahon

12.00 pm St Paul's ~ Sudanese Service

Hymns In the service booklet

REFLECTION: Zephaniah 3.14-20; Psalm 126; Romans 8.33-39; John 12.20-32.

The Japanese army landed at Gona on 22 July 1942 and by the beginning of September had killed Sister May Hayman and Mavis Parkinson. At Sangara, 50 km inland from Gona, Fr Vivian Redlich was stationed with a mission nurse, Sister Margery Brenchley, and a teacher, Lila Lashmar. About 12 km further on at Isivita were Fr Henry Holland and John Duffill. All five were captured, taken to Buna, and were beheaded on the beach, having been betrayed to the Japanese by locals. Leslie Gariardi, a teacher—evangelist, died at sea when his vessel was attacked by the Japanese. Another teacher—evangelist, Lucian Tapiedi, was axed to death by a local near Kurumbo village. His statue stands among the Twentieth Century Martyrs on the West Front of Westminster Abbey. To these we must add the name of Henry Matthews, priest, likewise a victim of the war and of his faithfulness to the cause of Christ.

Letting Go

To let go isn't to forget, not to think about, or ignore.
 It doesn't leave feelings of anger, jealousy, or regret.

Letting go isn't winning, and it isn't losing.

It's not about pride, and it's not about how you appear,
 and it is not obsessing or dwelling on the past.

Letting go isn't blocking memories or thinking sad thoughts,
 and doesn't leave emptiness, hurt, or sadness.

It's not giving in or giving up.

Letting go isn't about loss and it's not defeat.

To let go is to cherish memories, and overcome and move on.

It's having an open mind and confidence in the future.

Letting go is accepting.

It's learning and experiencing and growing.

To let go is to be thankful for the experiences that made you laugh, made you cry, and made you grow.

It's about all that you have, all that you had, and all that you will soon have again.

Letting go is having the courage to accept change,
 and the strength to keep moving.

Letting go is growing up.

It's realizing that the heart can sometimes be the most potent remedy.

To let go is to open a door, and to clear a path,
 and to set you free.....
